Described experiences:

The customer, Mrs. Z., which has to remain anonymous for privacy rights, describes her experiences as follows:

« My dark skin suffered above average from the very hard water (34 ° French degree of hardness) in my region: The dry skin needed continuously crème and was even then always susceptible to cracks. »

Since application of the GIE® Water Activator (spring 2008) (showers & bathing) my skin showed immediately another picture: The skin was immediately gentle, less dry and important zones like e.g. face skin, back, torso and legs are hydrated and require only a minimum of crème.

Taking full bathes, the following effects were stated:

1. The temperature of GIE® Bath Water kept nearly its start temperature of 37 °C: after more than 60 minutes the water was still at 35 °C ! (with non activated tap water, I had to add hot water already after 25 minutes, which means that the water temperature has fallen below 34,5 °C (outside skin temperature).
2. Like mentioned above, my skin is now well hydrated and keeps this state also during the day under the condition that my skin does not get in contact with normal tap water. In this case, the skin is drying out instantly – this contrast is really fascinating.
3. The same way fascinating is the following observation (documented by the photo series in page 2 – 3): Taking full bathes, smaller and bigger bubbles are appearing at the major part of the water covered skin. Similar bubbles appearing as well at the water covered surface of bath tub.
